Sir David reveals why he feels the NHS needs to be reformed from the top down to avoid the political and organisational "fixes" that have characterised the service for the past 40 years. Asked why he believes there is a lack of political will to reform the NHS, Sir David says: "You are not going to get any change from a fifth, sixth, seventh, eighth, ninth, 10th party. But if you had a first, second, third, fourth, fifth, or sixth party, then there might be a possibility of some movement." Sir David says
